WHEELING, FEBRUARY 8, 1890. THE emapaign for 1892 has already begun in West Virginia. We are young yet, but we are hustlers. ANDREW CARNEGIE'S proposition t the city of Pittsburgh to denote her million dollars to be applied to the establishment of a free public library, is another evidence of that gentleman's philanthropic generosity. IT is to be regretted that the Board of dollars additional, if expended upon the ing to hypothecate P. W. & Ky. bonds

In its frantic appeal to the Democracy of the State to make a desperate effort to recover its lost ground, the Democratic organ in Wheeling says that the Republicans came near wresting West Virginia from the Democratic column through its superior organization and the apathy on the part of the Democracy. It is a acknowledgment, but it is better late than never. While howling fraud and was ever said by that paper of "superior organization," and "Democratic apathy." cided, comes the confession that Democratic indifference and not Republican frauds did the business. The Register concludes this remarkable statement with an appeal to Democrats to effect an organization "similar" to that adopted by the Republicans. It comes too late, however; West Virginia is no longer a Democratic State. Even the "similar organization" proposed will not be strong enough to count out a Governor next time. His majority will be too large to

Our "Non-Partisan" Governor.

Governor Fleming, in his "non-partisan" inaugural address, speaks of the "methods of the Quays and Dudleys,"

In the bitterness of his heart he could not refer to the subject of purity of elections without a personal attack on Republican managers. Speaking as the Governor of the whole people, for so he must be regarded in spite of the manner in which he became so, it would have been in better taste to be a little less biased in his allusions. For instance, biased in his allusions. For instance, o joyed some mention of the methods of when attacked by a man, and because it the Gormans, the Paynes and the Brices.

When Governor Fleming sets to picking the beam out o the eye of the Democratic party as wel as the mote from the eye of the Republican party, all the people will say ame and sustain him.

The Wall of the Dying. The Democratic managers in this State are beginning to read understandingly, the signs of the times. The party organ in this city vesterday contained a lengthy editorial pointing out the dangerous orecipice to the brink of which the Democracy of West Virginia is fast approaching. It is a frantic appeal to the scattered rank and file to close in and reorganize, and is a confession of the REPUBLICAN clubs that have not yet truth that the State is slipping steadlly the meeting of the State League in Democratic party is not in a condition

The object of the Queen Isabella Society, which is the woman's branch of the World's Fair movement, and is composed entirely of women, is the erection of a statue of the Queen and a woman's pavilion at the site of the fair. The movement is wide-spread and funds have been rapidly subscribed, so that the success of the plan is assured.

Mr. Tucker's article, which has raised so much indignation, says that the movement is wrong because the Spansh queen was unworthy of the honor. Isabella, he says, was a usurper of the throne and a tyrant. He charges her with being responsible for the banishment of the Jews, the persecution of the nized authority in matters of iron, coal Spanish Inquisition, and that "her inoyage of discovery was prompted soley by the hope of conquest and wealth. ian motive."
